Nifty started the week on a slightly positive note and extended its gains in the first session. However, the index failed to sustain above the 24530 zone, where the 200-day EMA acted as a strong resistance triggering a sharp decline. During the week, Nifty reclaimed the losses and closed above its 13-day and 55-day EMA, but still below 200-day EMA. RSI remained around 56, holding above the neutral 50 mark, indicating that momentum continues to favour the recovery despite easing slightly from the previous week. Going ahead, immediate resistance is placed near 24400–24500. On the downside, the 55-day EMA is likely to support the index near 23900, below which Nifty will seek support near 23650.
